Aiming to provide a fruitful learning experience to the students, a workshop on the topic "Preparation of Innovative Teaching Aids" was organized on 24 September 2018 at Army Institute of Education by Mr. Parmod Kr. Sharma, Graphic Assistant, NCERT, CIET, New Delhi. The workshop commenced with the welcome of Mr. Parmod Sharma by Dr. Tania Gupta, Principal AIE, faculty members and the students of B.Ed. Batch 2018-20.

Mr. Pramod Kumar gave a detailed overview about the innovative ideas in teaching aids that make teaching more interesting. He basically introduced three methods of making teaching aids as paper folding (origami), paper cutting & making puppets by using plastic bottles. The student-teachers practiced making paper puppets and had the pleasure of being a part of the puppet show.

Mr. Sharma engrossed the student-teachers with his voice modulation and effective use of creative puppets. He also encouraged the audience to be a part of the story with their participation and responses. The student-teachers learnt the art of narrating a story effectively. The squeals and the laughter of the students was the proof of the joy and fun they experienced during the workshop. He emphasized that a puppet is one of the best teaching aids, which not only attracts students' attention but also facilitates long lasting learning.

It was truly a resourceful session which impacted young minds with immense and good practical knowledge.
